throughout, for in that is the one true limit that exists on this totally out-of-control “federal,” as in Monte Hall’s, “Let’s Make A Deal!”, as in “by agreement,” system.

Objection to Non-judicial Decision-makers

Gonzalez v. United States, 553 U.S. 242 (May 12, 2008) (“If the parties consent”) (construing 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)). FLETCHER doesn’t consent.

Objection to use of private law

FLETCHER objects to the use of unpublished cases (to which he’s not a party). A cite to “WL” or “Lexis” is a reference to materials not publicly accessible. For such references even to begin to be meaningful, a full copy of the opinion for each “WL” or “Lexis” reference must be attached.

Status Report – Electronic Filing

One of the recent documents from the court suggested getting signed up for electronic filing within 14 days. FLETCHER does not count himself among the Steve Jobs or Bill Gates level of computer savvy folks in this nation. More to the other end, if there were a 10-year-old in the house available to assist, that would probably render that aspect possible to achieve.

The concept of electronic filing by pro se litigants is terrific! However, having looked into that matter far enough to find no comfortable starting place on even getting signed up, if this matter isn’t going to be substantially altered by traditional, hard-copy submission, FLETCHER would prefer to use that method.

Not in any way to say that FLETCHER has totally given up on getting signed up. It's just that it hasn't happened yet; the deadline is approaching quickly; and getting signed up is not likely to happen in the near future.

Respectfully submitted,
